GENEALOGY AND THE INTERNET, MY EXPERIENCES

BY DIANTHA BARTLETT HOWARD

The "Information Super Highway" provides many sources of information for the genealogist with a computer. There are mailing lists, news groups, Bulletin Boards, archives, and discussion groups via online services such as CompuServe, America Online, Prodigy, etc. Electronic access to library catalogs can also be helpful when the books can then be borrowed through Inter-Library Loan.

CompuServe has a genealogical forum called Roots. On it you can chat with other people interested in genealogy. There are also files you can download to your computer: files about people's research interests, genealogies, and various bits of information. I believe other online services have something similar.

I subscribe to an electronic mailing list called ROOTS-L. A mailing list works by distributing to all the subscribers every electronic mail message that is sent to the list. It can be accessed by anyone who has e-mail capability. (I have a direct Internet connection through the University where I work, but most of the online services, such as CompuServe, also offer e-mail.) The mail items seem to be mainly of three types: 1) particular queries; 2) genealogical software questions; and 3) asking for information from a particular source. In the last category, I asked the list if anyone would look up a WEINBECK marriage record for me in the Massachusetts state archives. Someone wrote back, and not only looked up that record, but also some death records. One of the most helpful things about this mailing list is the Roots-L Surname List. People send lists of the surnames on which they are working, together with range of dates and locations, to a central repository. (Example: BARTLETT 1660-now Newton, MA>Bethel,ME>Lowell,MA>CT.) Each month any new additions to this surname list are posted to ROOTS-L and also downloaded to CompuServe, among other places. This is a great way to find other people researching the same families. Because people from all over the world subscribe to this list, one can find out where to write for vital records in other countries, addresses of Genealogical Societies, helpful hints on using the Family History Library in Salt Lake City, and more.

News groups are the Internet version of discussion groups. Some genealogically related news groups are soc.genealogy.computing( for discussion of computers and genealogy), soc. genealogy.surnames (for sharing data on various surnames of interest)soc.genealogy.fr( for discussion of genealogy in France)etc. Some online services provide news groups readers.

There are many genealogy related bulletin boards all over the country. Many are run out of a person's home and are just discussion groups. As was mentioned by one of your speakers last fall, the Maine State Archives have a bulletin board. On it they explain what information is available at the State Archives.

FTP sites are locations on the Internet where genealogical information is stored and can be downloaded by the File Transfer Protocol (FTP). Most online services do not yet provide FTP although it is planned for the future. DELPHI provides it now. Not much primary source data is available online yet for searching. One exception is that a 2% sample of the 1851 UK Census is available for downloading.

A relatively new, but burgeoning field for genealogy is the World Wide Web, which is a series of linked documents. It can be accessed by a browser, such as Mosaic, or Netscape or Lynx. Again, most of the major on-line services do not offer this yet, but some smaller companies are jumping in. (Read ads in the back of computing magazines for possibilities). Several of the U.S. Government agencies such as the National Archives, the Census Bureau, and the Library of Congress, have created their own "home pages", which tell what information they provide.

I have found most people I've corresponded with electronically to be incredibly helpful. One man originally wrote me because my name was listed on some surnames from Washington County, ME, which were also in his wife's family. He was from Bristol, RI, where some of my father's ancestors lived, and loaned me a book by mail on Bristol's early settlers, which was a great help to me and gave me several new lines. This man also spent time during his vacation in the Courthouse and historical society in Machias, ME copying some information for me, photographed some tombstones, and has been superbly helpful. Another correspondent sent me copies of the Adjutant General's report on a civil war regiment which included details about the battle in which one of my husband's ancestors died.

I would be glad to answer further questions on these sources. My e-mail address is: dh@mv31.med.uvm.edu.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Well, we did it again! The January 21st "WORK SHOP" was a whopping success! There were three computer software demonstrations and the "Family Search" work station all humming during the afternoon and over eighty people registered seeking help and giving help to other budding genealogists.

This Work Shop had the largest attendance of any previous ones that I can recall since this society was founded in December 1982 by ten persons. I was one of them and the first secretary.

We members should be very proud of our Board of Directors, nearly all of whom were there hard at work; at the reception desk, mentoring work tables, setting up facilities and displays, demonstrating computer software programs, supervising the "Family Search" work station and the M.G.S. genealogical reference section of the Library. And of course, tasty refreshments that were available.

Henry Hoff, a certified genealogist, led off the meeting with comments on what is new in genealogical research. Our Vice President, Pete Kenyon then brought us up to date on a new software program; "Master Genealogist."

David Bowley, our Director of Computer Services (and the spark plug to bring us the Family Search system) then explained and encouraged our guests and members to go up to the reference room and try for themselves to operate the work station. And a lot of them did and crowded around the screen fascinated by what was presented.

An interim report was made about the financing of our joint purchase with the Library for the "Family Search" software. We are a little more than halfway towards raising the funds we promised the Library as our share. We hope donations for this program will continue to come in to our treasury to satisfy our commitment to the Library.

Regarding the M.G.S. NEWSLETTER; we need a Chief Editor to oversee the material to put in this publication. We have had several offers, offering to contribute, such as Florence Wyland, Dorothy Shillinglaw and Mary Ellen Gleason. Now what we need is someone to sort out the input and arrange format with a professional touch. We already have willing hands to get the newsletter printed and mailed. David Bowley and Dick Sarr have been handling this aspect in a very efficient manner.

We welcome and encourage our members to submit material describing their experiences running down data on their ancestors. If you find startling surprises, closet skeletons, famous -- or notorious forbearers and humorous facts; please do share them with us so we all can enjoy them.

Now, a few words about our upcoming GRAND SOCIAL EVENT for the year: Our annual George Washington's Birthday Luncheon at the lovely Silvermine Tavern in Norwalk, Connecticut. So set down this date: February 18th at 12 noon in the parlor and fireplace room. Cost is $17.00 per person. Enjoy our planned menu of Yankee Pot Roast, blueberry cobbler and the other tasty goodies. Please make reservations and send checks to Fred Farwell, Treasurer, 6 Pasture Lane, Darien, CT 06820. 655-4449. These luncheons were the idea of our first Vice President and one of the founding members, Leo Dumphy and this event is dedicated to his memory.

Charles Cotter, an M.G.S. Director, a student of early American History, will present an encapsulation of the cultural clashes between our early settlers and the Native American Indians. This Silvermine Tavern Luncheon is our social and fun activity of the year. And it's good for us to relax, chat with our friends and enjoy the fine food and ambience of this delightful Silvermine Tavern. For those needing a ride, call Ray Bartlett at 203-325-3471.

The next General Meeting for the M.G.S. is the Annual Meeting and Election of Officers at the Darien Public Library on April 8, 1995, from 2 to 4 pm. A speaker will be presented to discuss genealogical aspects of research following a short business meeting and election of new officers and board members. At the conclusion of the formal presentation, refreshments will be served.

FAREWELL

This will be my last opportunity to address you in a "President's Letter." During my four years as "Head Honcho" I must emphasize that without a most capable Board of Directors

I would have been like a rudderless ship. Admittedly, not being much of a genealogist, my services to our society have been that of a moderator. The remarkable part of my two terms as president has been the progressive actions of our Board. They come up with ideas and then put them into effect! For this I am deeply grateful and all of us should be rightfully proud of this Board and with this I bid you "adieu." Ray H. Bartlett

On January 27th, Mrs. Louise Berry, the Head Librarian for the Darien Public Library, addressed the Darien Senior Men's Association at the Y.M.C.A. As the featured speaker for their program, Mrs. Berry described the history, present facilities and future outlook for our Town's Library. She mentioned several times the Middlesex Genealogical Society as being a potent asset to the growth of the activity there.

The recent excitement and publicity about the addition of the L.D.S. "Family Search" work station has been a tremendous factor in bringing in new people to the library. These new-comers are taking great interest in programs the library has to offer.

Mrs. Berry particularly thanked David Bowley, MGS Director of Computer Services and Ray Bartlett, President, for their diligence and financial help in bringing the "Family Search" genealogical system to the Darien Public Library.

As a foot-note, we wish to announce that the M.G.S. has instituted a Computer Support Group, headed by David Bowley, to help those using computers for genealogical research, with software assistance, recommendations and trouble shooting. A schedule for meeting at the Library on Saturday mornings will be announced.

LOCAL BULLETIN BOARD

A local Computer Bulletin Board for Genealogists called The 12th Step, has been in operation for about a year centered in Norwalk, CT. Steve Ungvary is the Sysop. He carries the National Genealogical Echo; the Mid-West Echo and the South-East Echo. There are hundreds of messages each day. Feel free to join by calling 203-852-1986. No charge.

COMPUTER CORNER.

By David Bowley.

The MGS Computer Support Group is "up & running"..we plan on meeting each Saturday that we have an afternoon program at the Library...in the conference room at noon.

For those who missed our first meeting,we plan to provide support for our Society on computer projects, such as FAMILY SEARCH, and to assist each other in selecting computer hardware and most particularly in the selection of Genealogical software (including CDs) and keeping members up to date on Genealogical data available in "Cyberspace"! FAMILY SEARCH, which I hope all of you have now tried,has been running in the Library for 2 months & is by all accounts a great success; the Library who provided the magnificent Compaq 486 DX (with a quad CD drive) are happy with the program which is their most popular work station.The program is so user friendly that the team of MGS support volunteers,that we put together has ended up like the Maytag repair man!Please be generous though with your contribution to help pay for the software, which we donated to the Library (as a 100th birthday present).

We got a nice letter from Steve Kyner,who spoke at our last meeting & he put a piece about MGS's aquisition of FAMILY SEARCH in the New England COMPUTER Genealogist which he edits.

Write to him at The New England Historic Genealogical Society 101,Newbury St, Boston, MA 02116-3087,if you would like to get this most informative little newsletter. Steve has also started up the GENSUP forum on Compuserve with Dick Eastman who runs the primary Genealogical Forum on Compuserve which you can access with a GO ROOTS command.

These forums have Libraries loaded with Genealogical goodies which are easy to download if you have a modem(preferably running at 14,4) and the Compuserve Communication package WINCIM (for Windows).

GO ROOTS has many of the LDS publications which can be downloaded & GO GENSUP,which is fairly new, has support for The MASTER GENEALOGIST which shows great promise as the latest all bells & whistles software for home genealogy.

I downloaded the free Demo version from GENSUP this week & have sent for the $10 working model which allows one to try out the program on some data to see how it goes (They refund $10 if you buy the full program ($99). Pete Kenyon has the full program loaded & says their support is excellent,Dave Mordy suggests that we wait for version 1.02 which is promised in two weeks time! Call 1-800-982-2103 for info.

And finally another exciting moment in cyberspace this week, PRODIGY beat their peers in providing easy access to navigation of WORLD WIDE WEB. This brings the incredible ability to scan through a hypertext document which has under-lined words, which when clicked by the mouse,send the system scurrying off around the World to find the related document in some remote computer & load it into your machine where it come up on screen & can be printed out if necessary.I already downloaded a bunch of useful Canadian search data from the Genealogy section being run by EVERTONS in the Hobbies Area!

Get a Modem(Prodigy have 14,4 cards for $50) & go surf Genealogical Cyberspace! ...please call me on 655-2734 if I can be of any assistance)

OLD SCITUATE CEMETERY
FOUND AND CLEARED IN RI

About fifty stones in an abandoned cemetery in Scituate, Rhode Island have been located and cleared of debris by James and Patricia Carr, a young couple who were building a house on the property nearby. Grave markers include the surnames of Ralph, Walton and Griswold and date back as far as 1809.

About 30 of the stones predate the Civil War. The Carrs hope to locate the descendants of those laid to rest in the 50-by-80 foot plot. "We just want them to know it's here so, maybe, they can help update the history and genealogy of the area," said James Carr.

The site was known as the Ralph Cemetery. Many of the grave markers are illegible. "But some of them have the surnames of Ralph and Walton, along with the most prominent name of Griswold," said Carr. "The quality of the headstones indicate they must have been well-to-do."

The Carrs say the cleanup of the old cemetery neighboring their property should be completed by Sunday, "and then we'll repair the pipe railing around the perimeter", said Carr.

John Sterling, coordinator of a 25 member volunteer group that has been recording old cemeteries statewide, said the Scituate site is one of 3,200 identified in Rhode Island, all but 200 of them abandoned. Sterling said, "This one is recorded, but not registered. The difference is that registration involves the state installing a small white sign with a number designating the location as a historic cemetery," assuming the owner gives permission. There are about 150 recorded cemeteries in Scituate where, in the 1930's Charles and Martha Benz compiled a private record of 130.

LIBRARY NEWS
BY C. SCRIBNER

New to our section of the Darien Library is a booklet entitled "Catalog of Genealogical Books". This booklet contains a complete listing of books dealing with genealogy and related subjects in the Darien Library. It was compiled at the request of the Board of Directors of the Middlesex Genealogical Society.

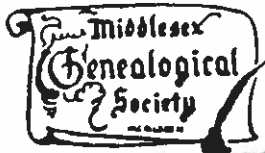

Besides our own collection and a Darien Library Collection (in the Business Reference Room), the Mezzanine, New Book Shelves, and even the Children's Room. All books have been inventoried and indexed and are included in this catalog.

The books are listed by location. To aid in finding them, shelf numbers and library call numbers are used along with a map of the library showing each location. Updating of all locations will be done occasionally to record new books and return any misplaced books to their original shelves. Most of the books previously listed as missing were merely misplaced.

The two collections in the Business Reference Room have been updated from an inventory compiled in 1992 by Pat Flowers. Booklets and a diskette were supplied. Also included in the original booklets and added to the new catalog is a listing of genealogical books in the Darien Historical Society's Library.

Local history books belonging to the M.G.S., Darien Library and Darien Historical Society have been indexed and are included in this catalog.

You are invited to the M.G.S. annual George Washington's birthday luncheon February 18th at the SILVERMINE TAVERN in Norwalk, CT, honoring the memory of our first vice president, the late Leo J. Dunphy, one of the founding members.

The menu is Yankee Pot Roast and Blueberry Cobbler. The price is $17.00 per person. Please make reservations and send checks to:
Fred Farwell, Treasurer
6 Pasture Lane
Darien, CT 06820 (203-655-4449)

Our member, Charles Cotter, will tell us about the culture clash between our early settlers and the native American Indians.

For those needing transportation call Ray Bartlett 203-325-3471

Reminder: Do not send cash through the mail. Use a check or money order.

REQUESTS FROM THE MAILBAG -

by Lynn Hanks

We get requests from the Western states for Connecticut people who are willing to do research and, quite frankly, I have no idea who in this area does that kind of work. I am assuming that most would pay for the service. One man in bold letters stated "Need the assistance of an accredited genealogist in Connecticut (for a fee)" They often send quite an extensive family tree with their letter to help get started and many send an addressed, stamped envelope. It seems a shame to let them go without some kind of answer. If anyone within our reading circle knows of a working genealogist who is willing to do research for a fee, please notify this society. I will be glad to pass along any inquiries we receive.

Mr. Standley R. Andrus, 3903 Orangewood Drive, Fair Oaks, CA 95628-7410 made a request for info on a number of people mostly in the Saybrook CT area. He is applying for supplemental membership to the Mayflower Society via John Alden and to the SAR via patriot John Waterhouse.

Mrs. Bena Taylor Kirkscey, PO Box 557, Rosebud, TX 76570 enclosed seven pages on the family of Elizabeth A. Silcriggs and Judith Mallaree. She is looking for help in this area to complete her work.

Mrs. Garnet Pettibone Murphy, 1708 Wilmbledon Dr. Bedford TX 76021 is looking for info on Freeman Pettibone in CT.
